Yukon ACOL Personal Property Registry System Now Live!

Issue 3

June 27, 2016

As of today, Monday, June 27, 2016, the migration of the Yukon Personal Property Security Registry to the ACOL Personal Property Registry (PPR) System is complete. All transactions related to registering, amending, discharging or searching personal property registrations in Yukon are now conducted through Yukon ACOL PPR.

Legislative Changes

Following the proclamation on May 4, 2016, the Personal Property Security Registry (Electronic) Amendments Act and new regulations have now come into full force as of June 27, 2016.

ACOL account now required for use

If you have not yet established a client account with ACOL, you will need to do so in order to gain access to the Yukon registry and any other ACOL PPR jurisdictions you choose.

If you need work done immediately, you can pay a value-added service provider to access the PPR for you.

You will find the application forms, financial agreement forms, instructions and other information at www.acol.ca/en/service/pprs.

If you already have an ACOL account, complete the addendum form to add access to Yukon. Select 'Add (or delete) access to a jurisdiction's PPR'.

Note: Please allow two to three weeks for your account(s) to be created and to receive your welcome package with everything you need to begin using the system. You may submit your application by email or by fax, but your user ID will be sent to you by regular mail.

Be a Value-Added Service Provider

It's free and it's a great way to advertise your services to potential clients in Yukon and across the country. List your company as a value-added service provider or agent who provides services through the ACOL system for Yukon, Northwest Territories, Nunavut or the four Atlantic Provinces. All you need to do is call 1-855-324-ACOL (2265) or send an email to the ACOL client support centre at webcomments@acol.ca.

Orientation and training presentations

On June 3-8, training sessions were held in Whitehorse by ACOL team members. We thank all who participated. The PowerPoint presentations are now posted on the ACOL Yukon website.

Registration and Search Changes Reference

This useful reference guide describes the functions and characteristics of the ACOL PPRS, focusing on the differences and changes from the Yukon PPSR. It includes changes to registry functions and services now available to registry users and stakeholders, including changes in terminology. It is now available on the ACOL Yukon website and on the Yukon Corporate Affairs website.

Thank you to our clients

The project to modernize Yukon's Personal Property Security Registry began in November 2015 when the Yukon government signed an agreement with Unisys Canada Inc. to implement the ACOL Personal Property Registry System.

This major project focused on improving the quality of service and accuracy of the registry for our clients in joining six other Canadian Jurisdictions in adopting this modern web-based system.

We thank you for your patience as we migrated to the ACOL Yukon Personal Property Registry System.
